Inmates on death row

Do you believe in the death penalty? Inmates are getting sent to prison for the rest of their life and I think that this is a punishment that is given to people for the worst crimes they commit like killing each other and doing stuff that is extremely harmful to people so this is a punishment that is going on in some states. Others say that the death penalty is not a great idea because if the court sentence you to death, you are basically are going to spend some time in prison and you are just going to die by the correctional department. People also say they prefer a life sentence because you might possibly get parole.

People are posting on this twitter group based on this community about the inmates on death row and they gave examples of these people who are sentenced to life or death. Someone posted an article that took place in alabama that some person has received the death penalty and then suddently the death penalty was lethal injections which that is what they use now a days. Back before they had the electric chair so they could shock people to death. In Alabama however, that is a state where the most executions happen. If people are committing the worst crimes they could sentence them to death but in my opinion a life sentence is a better option than death because a life sentence you just spend the rest of your life in jail and a death sentence is where the correctional officers kill you immediately. And so that is just my opinion.

There is another post that someone posted. It took place in Oklahoma. It was about the author who made the article. His name was Don Heath and he was talking about the execution of James Coddington. Heath saw everything that happened to his execution. And a lot of people were protesting about Coddington's execution and they say that the death penalty is not good because these officials are killing the prisoners. Another thing is that if prisoners receive the death penalty their whole life is gone. They will be sent to jail for a short time and then the correctional officers will start killing the prisoners by lethal injection. Honestly in my opinion executions should never exist because they send these prisoners to jail for a short time and then they get killed. They should just give them a better life sentence because they can live longer. A death sentence is not good for these prisoners. There are some protests that are happening so that way they can get rid of the death sentence.

There is also another article that talks about a 19 year old who committed a crime and then got the death sentence. And honestly for this article this is very upsetting. If you commit a crime and receive a death sentence at the age of 19, then your whole life is just gone. She will literally get executed at a young age. Another thing is that someone posted another article about a trial of a person named nikolas cruz who was convicted of a shooting. During the trial the judge had to make 2 decisions whether if the judge wanted him to sentence him to life or give him the death penalty. And the jury decided to do the death penalty because what he committed was extremely wrong and he shouldn't do that type of stuff. In my opinion, I would suggest giving him a life sentence because lots of people are afraid to die at a young age. And I think that it is not fair that these people at a young age can get an execution date.

People say that the death penalty is bad because when people commit extremely horrible crimes they say that their punishment is death and they deserve to die. While it is true that the crimes they commit were extremely horrible, it's not worth it to kill someone. It would be better if they get a life sentence with parole because the judge can determine if a prisoner is going to be released or still be in jail. And so that is the best option rather than a death sentence because a death sentence sounds extremely wrong.

Overall, seeing all these people posting these articles and posts made me think that the death sentence is just harsh. I would prefer giving these prisoners a life sentence better than a death sentence. What I mean is that they will still die but they will remain behind bars. The article that someone posted took place in Alabama and this is just embarrassing to see because in Alabama, it is a place where most death sentences happen. And someone posted another article about a 19 year old who committed a crime and got the death penalty. And in my opinion hearing an article about a 19 year old sentenced to death is just so sickening and in my opinion people at those ages should just give them a lighter sentence. For example they should be sentenced to 20 to 30 years. And that is a better option. And so this is something that we need to fix.
