I need to write because this is something that lots of people need to do. When people write their essays they use citations and when people cite their essays the formatting changes sometimes. for example I've used MLA formatting and now we used APA Citation and that can improve essays. and also this time I was writing about things that are happening right now in the news because people need to think and write about a specific event or problem that is happening in the world so we can speak up and that is important so other people think they can solve an issue.

One thing that I also learned is that we had many different articles we read about. I've read many articles that involve different situations. I've read about kalief browder and this person was sent to jail and was held at rikers island and he had mental health problems. So this is why he went to jail. I've also did an essay about the death penalty and this is a big problem. Lots of people say no to the death penalty. People say that the death penalty is a harsh punishment.

Another thing is that i did a peer interview with a partner who is from bangladesh and she told me lots of things in her life and we talked about her communities she belongs to and that is important so we can learn more about each other

So this is what I've learned so far in this course and it is really interesting and it is very helpful for me because this can help me look at current events and write about it and it also can help me become a better writer.
